TABLE OF CONTENTS

Selected Articles and Essays from the Conference on the Present State and Problems of Family Law in the Transformation Period of Post-Communist States (27-29 June 1998, Prague, Czech Republic)

Relationships Between Family and Government
Lynn D. Wardle ............................................................... 1

The New Aspects of Russian Family Law
Maria V. Antokolskaia.......................................................... 23

Rights of Custody and Access Under the Hague Child Abduction Convention—"A Questionable Result?"
Marilyn Freeman............................................................... 39

Activities of the Council of Europe in the Field of Family Law
Marta Requena.................................................................... 53

Children’s Rights in the Hungarian Judicial Practice
András Körös................................................................. 67

Changes in the Modern Era Lead to the Evolution of Hungarian Family Law and Children’s Rights
Emilia Weiss.................................................................... 75

Croatia’s New Family Act and Its Implications on Marriage and Other Forms of Family Life
Dijana Jakovac-Lozić.......................................................... 83

The Significance of Biological Parentage in Yugoslav Family Law
Gordana Kovaček Stanić...................................................... 101

Yugoslavia: The Medico-Legal Issue of Transsexuality
Marija Draškić................................................................. 115
Parental Responsibility and State Intervention
Ruth Farrugia ................................................................. 127

ARTICLE
Saving Lives in the International Court of Justice: The Use of Provisional Measures to Protect Human Rights
Alison Duxbury ................................................................. 141